

Bangkok Night Bike

Active Trails

Taking to two wheels, we spend the evening cycling through Bangkok's backstreets to visit the most famous sites after dark that are free of crowds, which makes this a truly unique way to see the capital. As we ride after sunset along quiet back roads and through small alleyways, we see a very different perspective to this buzzing metropolis. We soak up ancient temples that are spectacularly lit up and observe life along the way. For those seeking a different experience in Bangkok, then this excursion is the perfect choice and cycling is a breeze as the temperature is cooler and the locations are much quieter. All equipment is included, including bikes helmet, lights and insurance and our professional guide is always on hand. Dinner is not included however we do stop for some fun and tasty snacks at the Pakklong Talaad Flower Market.

Half Day Colors of Bangkok

Active Trails | Family Trails

There is no better way to see Bangkok than on a bicycle to really soak up the atmosphere and varied life of the booming metropolis. 'Colours of Bangkok' is a half-day bicycle tour that takes us off the beaten track to travel through the surroundings of the metropolis to give us a totally different view of the capital not found in tourism guides. We will travel to places where there is virtually no traffic and visit traditional communities and learn about daily life. We also explore the 'Green Lung' and ride on elevated pathways through thick jungle and take a break to refuel with some local Thai food. This exploration finishes off with a stop to observe the popular Thai combat sport at a Muay Thai school.

Half Day E-scooter Bangkok Jungle Tour

Active Trails

Close to Bangkok's urban sprawl of towering skyscrapers and expansive shopping malls lies a hidden jungle waiting to be explored. Bang Krachao is known as the capital's 'green lung' due to the expansive space that provides an oasis of serenity in a city of nine million. One of the best ways to explore this area is by e-scooter. This silent form of transportation takes us through a location that resembles a provincial rural Thai village, with rustic wooden homes framed by dense overgrowth. The single-track pathways are tailor-made for e-scooters. Points of interest include venerable temples and traditional markets. This excursion starts with a rendezvous with the guide at Khlong Toei MRT station, followed by a short walk to a nearby market to buy fresh fruits. We then get a tuk-tuk to a pier and board a local ferry across the Chao Phraya River. This short boat journey feels like a portal to another world – no high-rises and no traffic! After a riding demonstration, we set off, with a stop for refreshments and lunch at a riverside restaurant. Experience a different side to Bangkok on this fun excursion.

Half Day E-scooter Night Tour with Local Street Food

Active Trails

A journey back in time is made on an e-scooter tour of Bangkok's historic attractions in the Old Quarter. These silent and speedy vehicles enable a lot of ground to be covered in a short time and their versatility enables access through narrow alleyways. Guests are guided past areas of interest, including riverside Wat Arun, also known as the Temple of Dawn, Wat Pho, the Temple of the Reclining Buddha and colourful Pak Khlong Talat Flower Market, a blaze of colour that stocks abundant fragrant and exotic flowers and orchids. We will also see the magnificent Grand Palace bathed in floodlights. The tour starts with a riding demonstration and a brief potted history of Bangkok. Our final call is at Wat Prayoon on the western side of the Chao Phraya River. Built during King Rama III's reign, this white stupa shrine is located on the southern edge of a former Portuguese community where these merchants lived. Besides exploration, the guide's expert local knowledge ensures we enjoy delicious dishes at the best street food outlets along the way. History, heritage and hawker food, this tour has it all!

Half Day E-scooter Street Food & Street Art Tour

Active Trails

Bangkok is seen from a different perspective on an e-scooter tour of the capital's most renowned districts. These silent and speedy vehicles enable a lot of ground to be covered in a short time and their versatility enables access through narrow alleyways. After a riding demonstration, it is time to glide off on our discovery. The first stop is a market to absorb local life and see the products for sale. We then explore the narrow alleyways of the Thonburi area, followed by a ride across the Memorial Bridge, over the Chao Phraya River, to bustling Chinatown where we try some of the most famous street food in the metropolis. We will learn about the history of Chinese settlers and how they influenced Thai culture. After a ride around the back streets of Chinatown, we take a ferry across the river to Tha Din Daeng Market to sample traditional Thai snacks. Next, we head to Wat Prayoon and feed the resident turtles. Our final call is the Kudeejeen community, an enclave created by Portuguese traders 250 years ago. We will try muffins from a local factory and learn how Portuguese settlers influenced Thai food. This excursion reveals Bangkok's hidden secrets.

Half Day Rickshaw & Hiking The Colors of Bangkok

Active Trails

You will be surprised at the radically different environment away from the concrete buildings and skyscrapers of central Bangkok and this tour takes us on foot to reach the places that even a bicycle won't let us reach with a visit to a local temple; observation of life in a slum community; and a short boat ride across the Chao Phraya River to the 'Green Lung' that contains a dense jungle of banana, mango and coconut-trees. Exploring this region feels like a far cry from the city backdrop it adjoins and it is here where we enjoy a local lunch. Our journey continues aboard a samlor (Thai rickshaw or bicycle taxi) to travel through this greenest part of Bangkok.

SIC Full Day Bangkok Way of Life

Active Trails

The 'Bangkok Way of Life Tour' gives an alternative view to the sprawling metropolis. Despite the capital appearing to be an urban jungle filled with concrete and skyscrapers, a trip over to the Thonburi side of the Chao Phraya River takes us to a less developed part of the city that is brimming with Thai culture. This former capital of Thailand was titled Krung Thonburi Sri Maha Samut, or 'City of Treasures.' Although part of Bangkok, travelling on two wheels past its abundant temples and markets gives a new perspective on the different ways of life that make Bangkok the unique destination it is. This tour makes for an interesting and fun journey that will excite all of the senses.
